ILWU Canada Waterfront eNews

Official e-newsletter publication of the International Longshore & Warehouse Union Canada

Oct 17th, 2016

Greetings Brothers and Sisters,

Around the Lower Mainland, you will see the red banners of the United Way flying. The ILWU along with many of the employers and other waterfront unions have been running a join campaign to support United Way sponsored charities.

This campaign is called Waterfront United. We will be running a series of events to raise money for charities that work in our communities helping children and their families to move from poverty to possibility. I have included a list of events that will occur over the coming weeks.

I have personally been involved in this campaign for the last 3 years and have had a chance to visit some of the great organizations doing amazing work in our neighbourhoods. Without money raised through the United Way many of these worthy organizations could not function. You can donate though your payroll by picking up a form at one of the events or via the website. Be sure to click that it is part of a workplace campaign. Donations are tax deductible.

Thank you

Time to stop the talks: TiSA negotiations must be brought to a halt

Newly released Wikileaks documents make it clear that the Trade in Services Agreement (TiSA) is no more than a corporate power grab and that negotiations must be stopped.

The wide scope of the deregulatory agenda and attack on democratic governance has been exposed. The EU is attempting to wrestle control of every level of governance from the municipal to national levels of partner countries. The leaked documents demonstrate that the EU is demanding other TiSA parties to include and commit to the liberalisation of public services in the trade pact.

"These leaks give a clear indication of the dangerous direction of the TiSA negotiations. The fact that citizens and civil society are still obliged to rely on leaks for getting a sense of the direction of the negotiations is deeply unsatisfactory," said Fred van Leeuwen, General Secretary of Education International (EI).

Delayed since 2013, negotiations to finalise the deal by the end of the year are set to continue Monday, 17 October in Washington, D.C. They cannot be allowed to take place.

"The EU position ignores the potential danger of exporting aggressive privatisation policies to the developing world, which have already been shown to be the cause of social and political instability in many EU countries," said Public Services International (PSI) General Secretary Rosa Pavanelli.

The European Federation of Public Service Unions (EPSU)'s General Secretary Jan Willem Goudriaan stated that "We strongly oppose the EU's demand for market access in public services. Competition in these services undermines the build-up of quality public services in developing countries. The EU should not kick away the ladder to development."

Oliver Roethig, Regional Secretary UNI Europa agrees and adds, "European politicians know too well that public services that all citizens' have a universal right to is core to the development of sustainable economies. We cannot deny others, what we have relied on, and enjoyed ourselves."

"It's time to halt the negotiations, publish the secret texts and ensure the widest possible public debate to expose the full extent of the threat these treaties pose to democracy and the labour movement," said International Union of Food workers (IUF) General Secretary Ron Oswald.

"The EU proposals only multiply the concerns the ITF has already voiced on the undermining of global standards and of decreased safety oversight, as well as over the loss of national control" said the International Transport Workers' Federation (ITF)'s General Secretary Stephen Cotton.

In pointing out the EU's contradictory position to defend the European Social Model, UNI Global Union General Secretary Philip Jennings said that "The EU's privatisation demands undermine other countries' right to build sound public services, a stable financial system and local democracy. Not only is this unacceptable, it is hypocritical."

Together, EI, PSI, EPSU, IUF, ITF and UNI call on all countries participating in the negotiations to immediately publish information about their position and demands on other countries, including the US, Japan, Turkey, Australia and New Zealand, and begin national consultations with social partners and civil society.

TiSA negotiations must be brought to a halt. It is therefore urgent that you contact your government and demand both that it does not trade away your country's sovereign, democratic rights, or rob the rights of other countries.

Quebec workers hit streets, call for $15 minimum wage

Morgan Lowrie The Canadian Press

MONTREAL

MONTREAL—Even working 40 hours a week, Sara Vassigh says she sometimes has trouble paying her rent and bills at the end of the month. With a salary just above minimum wage, she says home ownership, saving for retirement and starting a family are distant dreams. "Not having a high income means I can't have more in life, because I wouldn't be able to support a family," the 34-year old community service worker said. Vassigh was one of several hundred Quebecers who marched in Montreal on Saturday to press for a $15-an-hour minimum wage. With signs reading "we shouldn't work for peanuts," many said Quebec's current minimum wage of $10.75 an hour isn't enough for a person to live on.

(Raising the minimum wage) is fundamental to being able to improve our quality of life," said Dany Harvey, a unionized janitorial employee. After working at minimum wage for years, he now earns close to $15 an hour, which he says makes a difference even if it still "isn't a lot." "The difference is just being able to pay bills and do a few activities and get out of the pattern of living from month to month," he said. Saturday's event was the culmination of a summer-long campaign led by a coalition of unions, anti-poverty activists and students.
